This is a photograph of a handwritten diary entry in Cyrillic script. The text is written on a piece of yellowed, textured paper. The handwriting is in dark ink and is somewhat cursive. The entry discusses political events, specifically mentioning the 'Coup d'Etat' and the 'Yugoslav Army'. The text is written in a single paragraph and is somewhat difficult to read due to the cursive style and the age of the paper.

Extract from Stepinac's Diary, book IV, p. 172, March 27, 1941.

On the pages 45 & 46 of this book is an explanation of the Coup d'Etat of March 27, 1941, at which time the Yugoslav Army defied Hitler and the Axis.

The photograph above shows political affiliation of Archbishop Stepinac and his ill thoughts toward the Serbs for their defiant role against the Axis. It is obvious that Stepinac lamented the fact that Yugoslavia broke with the Axis.

Translation of the extract above reads as follows:

From this whole act concerning the Coup d'Etat the fact remains that the Serbs and Croats are two [different] worlds which cannot be united while one lives. The spirit of Byzantinism [meaning Eastern Orthodox religion] is something so terrible that only Almighty and All knowing God is able to withstand the intrigues and deceits of these people. For us [meaning the Catholic Croats] it is something unbelievable to break agreements and promises without any scruples.

Extract from Stepinac's Diary, book IV, p. 176, March 28, 1941.

The next day Archbishop Stepinac again wrote in his diary in the same spirit about the Serbs, concerning the Coup d'Etat of March 27, as follows:

All in all the Croats and Serbs are two worlds, the north and south poles, which can never come close except by a miracle of God. Schism [meaning Eastern Orthodoxy] is the greatest curse in Europe, almost greater than is Protestantism. Here, there is no moral, no principles, no truth, no justice, no honesty (photograph above).

This Croatian newspaper Nedeljne Vijesti, Zagreb, Dec15, 1941, bears the headline:

CROATIA DECLARES WAR against England and the United States [of America] on the side of Great Powers and other States of the Axis.

USTASHI ARE STILL SPREADING RACIAL HATRED

As already has been said, Croatian Ustashi organizations are still spreading racial hatred in the Free World. One of the many proofs is the following photograph of an invitation of the FEDERATION OF THE CROATIAN ORGANIZATIONS in Argentina to Pavelic's Commemoration:

Translation:

These people cannot cover their racial and religious hatred and antidemocratic actions under false pretenses they are fighting the communists. They are just trying to do that.
